Welcome to Langeberg Foods, the home of one of the world's largest, top-quality deciduous fruit and purée-manufacturing businesses. Every delicious, canned product is grown and processed right here in the fertile grounds of the Western Cape, South Africa.

Our premium products are distributed across the globe, all year round, bringing joy to every table, every occasion, and every taste.

OUR VALLEY

FARMED LOCALLY,
ENJOYED GLOBALLY

The sun-filled, fertile valleys of South Africa's Breede River Valley receive well over 300 days of beautiful sunshine annually. It is from here that our hand-picked, export-quality fruit range is harvested, in a radius of less than 150 km from our production facility, to ensure minimal time between picking and processing.

The Breede River Valley is known for being the largest fruit and wine-producing area in the Western Cape. It falls within a meso-mediterranean climatic zone combined with ancient lime-rich soils.

Langeberg Foods houses a world-class manufacturing facility on the banks of the Cogmans River in Ashton, in the Western Cape, with state-of-the-art aseptic canning, purée and drying equipment. Cutting-edge processing technology has yielded consistent, reliable, cost-effective quality products.

BRINGING THE BEST TO THE FOOD SERVICE INDUSTRY

Hotels, restaurants, bakeries, catering, schools and organisations.

Our food service channel supplies bakeries and wholesalers with canned apricot halves, peach halves and pear halves, which are used for decorating cakes, tarts and pastries sold to the public for all kinds of occasions.

Catering and institutional customers, such as Cash and Carry's, hotels, hospitals and restaurants, are known to use our canned fruit in desserts or at breakfast time.

Schools and organisations also purchase our peach halves to serve during lunch time, to offer better nutrition to those less fortunate.
